

ALISON FALK

Alison is an international speaker, a Hack Not Crime advocate and a recipient of (ISC)2 Center for Cyber Safety and Education award. She is the founder of WITPGH, a nonprofit that aims to help women learn emerging technologies with a holistic approach. Alison aims to demystify subjects that so many of us avoid discussing and illustrate how small behavior changes can lead to a safer exchanges and interactions between all ages in digital spaces.

“Whether it’s in regards to tech equity or cybersecurity, Alison’s passion is contagious. She’s an expert in and champion for the continued cultural and technological progress in all three subject areas. Her pursuit to see a paradigm shift in society’s consciousness towards each and their unique interconnectivity is relentless, unapologetic and an inspiration to everyone she encounters.”

- Vice President, JLL

ALISON'S SPEAKING TOPICS INCLUDE

The (Not Boring) Scoop on Cybersecurity: For Teens and Young Adults

The Cyber Risks of Adult Content: How Atrackers Utilize Shame

Utilizing Social Media to Build Your Career In Cybersecurity

BOOK ALISON